Our London Letter.

GUARDING PUBLIC MEN.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

LONDON, September 18th.
Inspector Randall, of the Special Branch of Scotland Yard, who has just died, spent most of his career in the arduous and responsible position of guardian of public men. For some time he had been attached as a personal bodyguard to Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the Home Secretary. His long period of service began with Mr. Lloyd George before he was Prime Minister, all through the Suffragist period, the Great War, and the Sinn Féin period. Considering what the national temperament of the English it might be thought superfluous to take these precautions; and certainly the shadowing of public men is less necessary in this country than in some others.
All the same some men need protection against madmen and fanatics.
As a rule our public men are much against guardianship by detectives. The late Mr. Bonar Law was one who hated to be shadowed in this manner. There is a story of a time when he was Secretary in Ireland turning on his guards and ordering them to go away and leave him alone whatever might happen—
an order which could not possibly be obeyed.
Gladstone once threatened to refuse his official protectors admittance to the grounds of Hawarden. Some Ministers have taken pleasure in giving their guards the slip, but never for long, and for the detectives concerned this only increases their responsibility. Mr. Winston Churchill has been known to dash into his house by one door and out by another and so get away for a time.
The Prime Minister, as might be expected of Mr. Baldwin, takes the attendance of the special service men philosophically.

New Editor of the "Daily Mail".
Mr. Walter G. Fish, who has for several years been the news editor of the "Daily Mail" has just been appointed editor of that journal in succession to Mr. Thomas Marlowe. He is 52 years of age, was born at Accrington, and in 1919 occupied the post of Hon. Director of Publicity in the Mines Department of the Government. He was educated at Westminster School.
It was fully expected in Fleet Street that Mr. Marlowe would resign on account of a recent article in one of the Sunday papers, written by Lord Rother-mere, the chief proprietor of the "Mail".
His Lordship publicly expressed disagreement with the policy of the "Mail" in regard to articles published in the paper in which the United States was attacked on account of the War debt settlement, America being described as the
"Uncle Shylock of Europe." Lord Rothermere said in this matter the editor had "gone off the deep end."
The public reputation of an editor's action by a proprietor is rare—if not unprecedented—in journalism, and the opinion of Fleet Street was that Lord
but to resign. He has been editor of the "Mail" for 27 years, and has stamped his prejudices and views deeply on the paper.

Dogs of Great Value.

The annual show of the Kennel Club which is being held at the Crystal Palace provides a remarkable example of the manner in which the pursuit of pedigree dog-breeding has captured the public.
There is an enormous entry from exhibitors resident in every part of the Kingdom. For the possibility of winning a first prize of £2,000 have been sent from Scotland and Ireland, as well as the remotest districts of England and Wales. Of course, it is the prestige of victory at this show that counts; and there is also the fact that a young dog,
by appearing in a number of classes,
may, if good enough, place a substantial sum to the credit of its owner.

The total value of the dogs can only be estimated approximately. Probably it is not less than £200,000. Prices have appreciated greatly as a consequence of the increased demand. The record still remains with Mrs. Mannoch's chow, which was sold to America a year or two ago for £1,800. I learn that apart from the vogue of the Alsatian, popular taste continues to support terriers and gundogs, wire-haired fox terriers and cocker spaniels being conspicuous. The small carm terriers are great favourites of women.

White Australia.

Satisfaction is expressed in the Press
here that the Empire-Parliamentary Delegates who went out to Australia from this country on a visit are learning something of the real mind of Australian labour as regards immigration; and also that Australian labour is being reminded of stern realities. At Sydney, Senator Grant, of the Labour Party, took occasion at a banquet to declare that Australia would bitterly oppose the arrival of quotas of emigrants from Great Britain that were beyond the capacity of the country to employ.

Reply was made to him in their speeches by Lord Salisbury and Mr.
Arthur Henderson. The latter, who, of course, is a prominent Labour man here, warned Australians that unless the idle lands of the Dominions were developed

BACK TO THE STAGE AT 92.

MR. E. J. ODELL TELLS OF HIS BIRTHDAY AMBITION.

STILL WORD PERFECT.

Age does not daunt Mr. E. J. Odell, the veteran actor. He is ninety-two and he is looking for a theatre in which to stage a show.
Mr. Odell is one of the last of the Bohemians. If you should chance to be wandering down the Strand about six o'clock of an evening, and you should see leaping airily from a passing omnibus a figure in a very old cloak and wearing one of the longest beards extant, and you see him wandering down Adam-street in the direction of Adelphi-terrace and the Savage Club, you will know that you have seen Mr. E. J. Odell (says the "Evening Standard").
I went to see Mr. Odell in his little ground floor room of the Charterhouse each year, writes an "Evening Standard" representative. To-day he was at breakfast and immediately broke into comment about food.

Food—and Ambition.

"I eat as much as ever I did," says he, "was never a big eater, but I have not changed my habits. My breakfast was always toast and tea. It still is.
And nowadays I have bread and milk for supper."
He began to deliver an oration on the virtues of sausage and mash, but broke off to dilate about his contemplated theatrical enterprise.
"Age should not put an actor out of harness," he said. "I want to go on the boards again, and I am looking for a theatre. Mrs. Kendal has promised to assist me and to recite something. When I asked her if she would she said, 'Of course I will. We have been friends, my dear Odell, for forty years.'"

"Ah what an actress! She was born to it. She acted child parts just as wonderfully as she did the big roles when the time came. And a great tom-boy when she was young. She could put all the young actors in their place."

Quips from Gilbert.

"To-morrow I go to the Yorkie Club for my annual celebration. They always give me a dinner, and I shall recite as usual. This time I am going to break away from Shakespeare, and I shall do a scene from Gilbert's 'Dan'l Druce', a play done by old Buxton at the Hay-market in 1870."
Thereupon Mr. Odell began to recite the scene. He was word perfect, and began:
"Good morning, pretty Mistress Dorothy," and went on to woo the young maid with quip and conundrum, saying things that were "complimentary and amusing."

"If you will be my wife I will court and cajole thee. I will pleasantly perplex thee ear with epigram. I will edify thee with anecdote, with merry tales, and tales, short tales, long tales, with repartee and rejoinder. Our life will be one never ending honeymoon."

A Story of a Cavalier.

And there he ceased his permitted say.
"Dan'l Druce" was a play of the Cromwellian period and old Odell played the part of a dashing but ne'er-do-well Royalist soldier who fled the country after the battle of Worcester. Now he is ninety-two, but his voice still has timbre. It is the voice of a man who is very much in love with life and the joy of living.
"I came home from the Savage last night in a taxi because I had half a crown and the taximeter looked very deserving. I shall walk there to-day," said old Odell. He had forgotten about Dorothy.

CLOWN'S SUICIDE IN THE RING.

A clown named Morvai, appearing recently at the People's Garden Circus in Budapest, suddenly cried to the audience: "Look at me and don't move." He then emptied some white powder into his mouth from a packet he took from his pocket.
The audience roared with laughter as he clumsily fell prone. His comrades
noticed he did not rise, and that his limbs were jerking spasmodically. He had taken poison because his engagement had not been renewed, and died soon afterwards in hospital. He leaves a widow and two young children.

THE VEGETARIAN DINOSAUR.

PREHISTORIC MONSTER LOSES HIS TERRORS.

KENSINGTON JOKE.

A joke that has taken 30 million years to kill now lies exploded in South Kensington Natural History Museum.

When the first members of the public examined the newly revealed skeleton and skin of the armoured dinosaur in his glass case, they laughed at the idea that the brute could ever have been a bogy that terrorised the earth.

For the armoured dinosaur is labelled as a vegetarian!

A few yards away from him, in another glass case, is a creature far more deadly —the disease-carrying flea.

Who can miss the moral of this drama of diet!

"Rip Van Winkle."

Eager naturalists who went to South Kensington to see the dinosaur on his return to the world's stage after an absence of a million generations promptly named him Rip Van Winkle.
He lies curled up in a naturally comfortable position, as if sleeping off the effects of a heavy meal of nuts and patent cereals.

Alas, the vegetarian never awoke to give another lecture, and when we next hear of him—in America, of course—he is found buried in solidified sand.

During the long period of inactivity he appears to have lost his head. But the decapitated body of the mighty cabbage hunter of old is not without its simple dignity.

The dinosaur is 15ft. long and 6ft.
broad, and in life was about the size of a small elephant, with his legs cut short at the knees, a very much smaller head, and no trunk.

Rumps Like Pyramids.

His rarity lies in his armour. No other fossil of his type found has so complete an armour. He has large horny lumps on his back, and looks like a camel that has grown pyramids instead of humps.

It has taken ten years of solid work to excavate him from the rock.

For sheer terror he is the least impressive of the monsters at South Kensington. His cousins, the meat-eating dinosaurs, far surpass him. Some of them were bipeds, just as we are, and probably looked down on the poor vegetarian.

Large as he is, he is only as big as the hind leg of the diplodocus, who is 62ft.
high.

SCOTLAND'S SABBATH.

Speaking at a congress in Glasgow on September 22nd, the Rev. David McQueen said that in industrial areas like Lanarkshire there was no Sabbath at all now.

On Sunday they could have all the fun of the fair. They had whist drives, at which the prizes ranged from a sideboard to a shirt, and billiard-rooms where, on the way to church, they could hear the merry click of the balls. The amount of card playing was also quite notorious.

THE CITY WOMAN.

SUCCESSFUL CAREERS.

THEY HAVE "COME TO STAY."

An imposing building recently erected near the Bank of England contains the sanctum of a City woman. One goes up to it in the lift, enters a door marked "Inquiries," and on being met by a neat, alert clerk, remarks to oneself as if it were a matter for surprise, "Just like every other office." A visitor leaves the room with "Private" inscribed on the door, a bell rings, and the next moment one is face to face with the City woman.

With curiosity still uppermost in one's mind, the first, if frivolous, thought is for the way she dresses. The smart hat and frock with the half-mark of a small Mayfair shop are reassuring. She has at least not left femininity behind. One begins to be conscious of an interesting personality, strong, capable, very much alert. Instinctively one looks about the room for evidences of the sex of its occupant, and finds with a certain mild surprise that, apart from the vase of flowers on the desk, there is nothing to distinguish it from that of a City man. It has a Turkey carpet, a few pieces of office furniture, and one or two photographs in silver frames. Nor is there anything in the routine of the office that strikes one as being in the least different from what one would find in any other well-organised and efficiently-conducted firm. The City woman seems to be taken entirely as a matter of course by everyone except the visitor, who has not quite recovered from the surprise of seeing one of her own sex preside over that ponderous desk with its neatly-arranged correspondence in cage wire baskets.

Those outside the world of business sometimes ask what openings exist for women and to what positions it is possible to attain. To the question it can at least be replied that a number of women have already carved out very successful careers for themselves. There are one or two very well-known women directors. Several women are at the head of important housing schemes. Advertising has given a few very able women the chance of making full use of their business talents, and has brought them, moreover, great financial rewards. In a large engineering firm there is a woman who has worked her way up to the head of an electrical department. A woman electrical contractor is carrying out lighting schemes for various villages in Devonshire, and a woman housing contractor has secured several large contracts in Yorkshire.

Come to Stay.

A year ago the London Chamber of Commerce had only fifty women members. It has now double that number, and there are still many prosperous London business women who have not yet realised the advantages of being part of a big organisation. The Chamber believes that the City woman and the business woman have come to stay. They are to be found in every conceivable kind of trade. Several firms of house decorators have very able women at the head. One such firm has a large West-end clientele. The woman director has shown a great gift for evolving schemes of decoration, her taste having been cultivated on classical lines. There is a woman financier, and one of the few women managing directors of a large firm in this country is at the head of a book-binding business. Another business woman is a partner in a famous firm of art auctioneers. One woman has several very successful West-end hotels, and there are a great many women restaurant-keepers. A woman took over the business of a firm of dealers in Oriental wares when it was on its last legs. It is now prospering. Other women run dog bureaux and canine homes, beauty saloons, typewriting schools, handicrafts, millinery, and photographers' businesses. Indeed, there is no limit to their scope. There is one branch of business, however, in which they have been many failures—dressmaking. In the opinion of an experienced business woman that is because so many women have gone into that particular line without experience or capital, trusting to their social connection to see them through.

A marked characteristic of the successful business woman is her enthusiasm. She has not looked for openings which do not exist. She has had the courage and enterprise to use opportunities and take risks, just as the successful business man has done. That is sufficient to indicate that by no means every type of woman that would like to enter business is capable of succeeding in it. Business men have been known to complain that "foreign girls are so much smarter than English girls at their job." A view that is held by some is that English girls are handicapped owing to the failure of their parents and their schools to "put personality into them." Be that as it may, there can be no doubt that initiative, a real enthusiasm for the work, and an alert and receptive mind are even more necessary for a woman who aspires to make a big success in business than they are for a man.—Daily Telegraph.

BRONZE AGE SKELETON.

ISLE OF WIGHT DISCOVERY.

During excavations in a barrow on Niton Down, Isle of Wight, by a party of local and visiting antiquarians under the direction of Mr. Gerald Dunning, of Ventnor, a perfect skeleton of the early Bronze Age was found recently. It was that of a man of middle age, with a complete set of teeth and a prominent lower jaw. The body was buried on its right side, with the knees drawn up, in a roughly-hewn shallow chalk grave. A quantity of broken pottery, evidently also of the Bronze Age, was found near by. Last year Mr. Dunning discovered the remains of an ancient beacon base in a mound in the same locality.

PEPS

The Remedy You Breathe

SO like the lung-healing Alpine air in effect are these breatheable Peps tablets that they are aptly described as 'a pine-forest in a bottle.'

Dissolved in the mouth Peps give off healing volatile fumes which are breathed straight to the lungs. Peps have an invigorating, antiseptic, and fortifying influence on the whole breathing system.

Mischiefous germs in the throat or bronchial tubes are promptly exterminated by this powerful Peps medicine. Soreness, inflammation and irritation of the delicate lining membrane is quickly allayed.

For early-morning coughs, night chills, bronchial colds, sore throat, laryngitis, bronchitis, asthma, etc., Peps are acknowledged unequalled.

RACING NOTES.

(By RAPIER)

The Fanling Hunt.

The country will not be fit for hunting until the early part of next month as most of the ditches, graves and other dangerous spots cannot be seen owing to their being overgrown with long grass. Messrs. Birkett and Potts have taken out the hounds regularly throughout the summer on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays. They have recently been joined by a few more enthusiasts and some fairly good runs have been made over carefully selected country. Those interested should note that the run on Sundays is usually between 8 and 9 a.m. and on Wednesdays the 1 o'clock train is in time for the meet. Instead of the usual aniseed drag a rabbit from cold storage has been trailed and the hounds give tongue to it with great zest. There are at present seven couple of hounds and 2½ couple will be added to their number on Sunday. These are arriving by the Glenageary and are the gift of Mr. G. H. Potts. They are from the Hampshire pack. Lieut.-Comdr. Spragge, who was one of the Whips last year, is sending out 2 couple of hounds, the gift of Mr. J. Jardine, the Master of the Dumfries-shire Hounds. Dr. Pierce Grove is sending out 6 couple by the Glenageary arriving about the end of this month. The pack will then be an excellent one and the coming season shows every promise of some fine sport.

Mr. Alec. Potts and a few other keen supporters of the Hunt are working hard for the success of the Steeplechase Meeting at Kwai Tung on the 30th. There are 30 ponies entered and five races on the card and the fields will, therefore, be big enough to make the racing interesting. The refreshment tent run by the Hunt will contain drink and smokes of all descriptions; also sandwiches and cakes; but those who want tea would be well advised to take it out in a thermos flask. Further particulars will appear in these columns in due course.

Extra Race Meeting.

Entries close to-morrow for the extra race meeting on November 6th and they will be published in this column on Monday morning.

Mr. "John" Peel, a Steward of the Jockey Club, has just come back from Home looking very fit. He is one of our more energetic supporters of racing and he got into harness almost as soon as he arrived.

Training has started at the Valley and next week will see the students of form gathered round the rails on galloping mornings.

CHINESE AQUATICS.

FURTHER PRELIMINARY EVENTS.

The second day of the second annual aquatic sports of the Hongkong Chinese community were conducted successfully last evening at North Point.

The sports were under the auspices of the South China Athletic Association and the Chinese Bathing Club.

The last and concluding day for the final competition will take place to-morrow afternoon, beginning at two o'clock. Among the patrons of this meeting are Sir Shou-son Chow, the Hon. Dr. H. H. Kowall, and Mr. Tseng Yu Tung, all Honorary Presidents of the South China Athletic Association. The presidents are Mr. Mok Wing Yu and Dr. Yeung Shiu Chuen.

The results of last night's heats are as follows:—
Those who qualified for the 100 metre, open, free stroke were Chen Cheng Hing, Hui Yu Chong, Wong Mon Huen, and Leung Shiu Mon.

Those who qualified for the 100 metre, handicap, for members only, included Yip Kin Ying, Lo Chi Hing, Wong Ki Chow, Yip Koon Yim, Man Hin Wing, and Yang Yu Ah.

The following qualified for the 400 metre, open, free stroke:—Pao Shin Hing, Chen Cheng Hing, Hui Yu Chong, Wong Mon Huen, and Leung Shiu Mon.

For the 200 metre, open:—1st heat: (1) Wong Ping Fun; (2) Lo Chi Hing. 2nd heat: (1) Lo Shet Kong; (2) Yip Koon Yim.

INTERPORT CRICKET WEEK ENTERTAINMENT.

THE PERFORMANCES BY THE AMATEUR DRAMATIC CLUB.

It has been previously mentioned that the Hongkong Amateur Dramatic Club have arranged to give a series of performances at the Theatre Royal during the inter-port cricket week, which begins on November 11th.

The first performance will be given on Saturday, November 13th, and will be followed by performances on Monday and Tuesday, November 15th and 16th, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 18th, 19th and 20th.

The plays to be presented will be as under:—A Matter of Time, a sketch by Ronald Jeans; The First and the Last, a drama by John Galsworthy; The Burglar and the Girl, a sketch by Matthew Boulton; and The Man in the Bowler Hat, described as being a terribly exciting affair, by A. A. Milne. Booking opens at Anderson's on November 1st, and prices to be charged will be $3, $2, and $1.

CRAIGENGOWER CRICKET CLUB.

MR. B. W. BRADBURY RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Craigen-gower Cricket Club was held at the Club-house yesterday, Mr. B. W. Bradbury presiding.

In proposing the adoption of the annual report and statement of accounts, which have already appeared in the Daily Press, the Chairman said that he was sure that members would agree with him that it had been a very successful year. As far as the bar profits were concerned the profit of 25 per cent. was a large increase on the previous year. It was very satisfactory when it was realized that lower prices were being charged for drinks than in any club in the Colony. Sundry expenses seemed larger than usual, but that was owing to their having an expensive "At Home" last year, when they won the Bowls Shield. Wages had also increased. Outstanding accounts were $300, but $150 had been collected since the balance sheet was published. Bad debts amounted to over $1,000, but some of that amount had been carried over from last year. In regard to gear, about $800 had been spent. One member thought that the bar profits should have been more.

Another member considered that the bar committee should be congratulated, and most of the members agreed.

Mr. J. C. Fletcher pointed out that $171.45 had been made on billiards during the year, whereas the expenses only amounted to $46.30. He suggested that some of the money should be spent on improving the billiards tables.

The Chairman replied that the matter would be considered by the new committee.

The adoption of the report and accounts being seconded, the proposition was carried unanimously.

Officers for the Year.

Mr. B. W. Bradbury was re-elected president, Mr. A. A. Alves, Vice-President, Mr. R. B. Bana, Hon. Secretary, and Mr. D. K. Kharaa, Hon. Treasurer. The following were elected on the committee: Messrs. W. B. Muskett, C. Alves, E. Mowling, W. Allen, W. Kent, A. Gillard, C. S. Rossett, and T. Grimes.

YUAMATI GOVERNMENT SCHOOL.

ATHLETIC SPORTS.

TENTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The tenth annual athletic sports of the Yuamati School were held yesterday at the new ground of the School at King's Park where many close finishes were witnessed. At the conclusion of the sports Mr. A. O. Brown, Headmaster of the School, paid a tribute to the Chinese masters for their splendid work in organising the meeting. He said that when he was a young schoolmaster thirty years ago he had to do everything in sports himself, but things had changed since then and he was glad to say that the Chinese masters were solely responsible for all the work. He said they had to thank Mr. A. E. Wood, the Director of Education, for his kind assistance in getting the new ground for the School.

Mr. Wood returned thanks to Mr. Brown for his remarks and hoped that the school would benefit by the lovely ground. On behalf of the visitors he thanked Mrs. Brown for coming to distribute the prizes.

Mrs. Brown then distributed the prizes to the successful competitors.

MARRIAGE REGULATIONS IN SHANTUNG.

AN AMUSING CIRCULAR.

WHEN A BOY MARRIES A WIFE OLDER THAN HIMSELF.

(Asiatic News Service.)

TIENTSIN, October 7th.

The Civil Governor of Shantung Mr. Lin, has issued a circular instruction to the Asien magistrates all over the province, regulating the age of marriage. He quotes an abstract of the petition submitted by the Magistrate of Hsinhsien, as follows: "According to the ancient customs when a man reaches the age of 30 he may marry a girl of 20 years of age, and the principle is that the husband is the lord and master over his wife and family. According to the civil law of China, a man may marry when he reaches 18 years of age. If he marries too early, it may injure his health. When a boy marries a wife much older than himself, there are bound to be troubles and disasters. I have paid several visits to the secluded villages in my district to study the conditions of the people and to raise funds by the sale of loan bonds, and I have spared no effort in urging the people to dispense with their queues and to stop the evil practice of foot-binding. I have found that in almost every family in the districts under the jurisdiction of the Tungchang Tao Prefecture early marriage is the prevailing custom. When a boy reaches the age of 11 or 12, he will marry a girl of 20 or more years of age. It is really a curse to many families. The same evil customs have prevailed almost everywhere in the province. I have therefore promulgated the following regulations, which, I hope, will be introduced in other districts:

1. No boy under the age of 18 shall be allowed to marry.
2. In contracting marriages, the wife shall not be five years older than the husband.
3. No girl shall be allowed to marry under the age of 16.

The Governor has now transmitted the above regulations to all the districts for enforcement. He points out that the irregularities in marriage have hitherto done serious damage to the nation, and hereafter he hopes that the evil may be removed.

SHAUKIWAN MURDER.

ALLEGED ASSAILANT CHARGED.

As a sequel to the death of a carpenter and the wounding of another man when a Chinese armed with an axe ran amok shortly after midnight on Tuesday at Shauiwan, the alleged assailant, Mok Choi, was brought before Mr. R. E. Lindell at the Central Magistracy yesterday and formally charged with murder.

To a question by His Worship as to whether there was another defendant in the case, Divisional Inspector Clark said that he had not quite got to the bottom of the affair and was still carrying out his investigations.

Defendant was formally remanded for one week.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLEMENT.

CHINESE FACES SERIOUS CHARGES.

A charge of obtaining and forging a cheque, and of securing $1,850 thereby, was brought against a Chinese named Poon Sing by his employer, Kwan Hing, of No. 5, Chiu Loong Street, at the Central Magistracy recently. When the case again came up before Mr. R. E. Lindell yesterday, another charge of embezzling a sum of $30 was added by Mr. E. Aroulli, who appeared for the prosecution. The case was again remanded.

TRUCULENT STRIKERS
ARRESTED.ACTION BY THE STRIKE COMMITTEE.

A NEW USE FOR PICKETS.

TO PROTECT SHIPPING AND PREVENT SMUGGLING.

[FROM OUR CHINESE CORRESPONDENT.]

The Kuomintang Central Executive Committee in Canton has commissioned Hsia Chao, Governor of Chekiang, as Chief Representative of the Kuomintang in Chekiang Province.

Kuomintang circles do not give much credence to the "anti-Red" report that General Hsu Chung Chi, one time officer commanding the Cantonese Army, a Kuomintang leader of the Right Wing, is prepared to lead an "anti-Red" uprising against the Kuomintang in the East River districts.

The Strike Committee arrested eight strikers last Tuesday. These strikers, it is said, endeavoured to cause trouble by denouncing the Committee for having accepted the Kuomintang instruction to abolish the picket system.

The Kuomintang is thinking of reorganizing the boycott pickets as a preventive and convoy service. The former pickets, many of whom have been given some military training, will be placed on board river craft to protect shipping and prevent smuggling.

The Kuomintang in Canton has again called the attention of shipping people to the order that between seven o'clock in the evening and six in the morning, no vessel may pass the military area at Whampoa. The Kuomintang is said to have received information that two "anti-Red" Northern cruisers are near Canton waters.

The Whampoa Academy is sending out agents to recruit more students. More than 7,000 Whampoa cadets have left Canton for the "front" since the commencement of the Northern Expedition.

Mr. Wang Ching Wei, formerly Chairman of the Kuomintang in Canton but lately absent from the Southern Capital because of personal differences with General Chiang Kai Shek, is being asked by the Kuomintang Conference, now in session in Canton, to return from his vacation abroad in order to resume the leadership of the party and administration. General Chiang Kai Shek does not now object to the return of Mr. Wang, as General Chiang himself has been made Commander-in-Chief of the Kuomintang Revolutionary Army, a post having supervision over civil as well as military affairs in time of war.

The Kuomintang Agency in Fatsan is asking the residents there to subscribe to a fund of $80,000 for the purchase of arms and equipment for another volunteer corps under the party's supervision. The residents of Fatsan, having several times subscribed to funds for such a purpose, are to find that every change in the majority meant the confiscation of the arms, are hesitating about putting up any more money. The city of Fatsan, like the town of Kaukung, while under Kuomintang control, is surrounded by "anti-Red" villages. Fatsan has been subjected to "anti-Red" attacks very often, and party troops there have never been able to get rid of the "anti-Red" annoyance.

MR. SUN FO AND M. BORODIN.

Reuter is reliably informed from Canton that the published report that there is a conflict between Mr. Sun Fo, Canton's Mayor and Member of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee, and M. Borodin, High Adviser to the Kuomintang, is without foundation. The most cordial relations exist between them.

THE RIVER TRAFFIC.

There is little change in the river traffic. The Tai Lee, another of the West River boats, has now gone alongside the wharf preparatory to resume her former service. The Lungshan brought down between five and six hundred passengers yesterday afternoon and the Sai On had nearly a thousand passengers and some five hundred packages of cargo. The Fatsan took up about 500 passengers to Canton yesterday.

DIPLOMATIC CORPS AND
CANTON TAXES.REFERRED TO HOME
GOVERNMENTS.

PEKING, October 21st.
The Diplomatic Corps for several days has discussed the Canton surtaxes. It is understood that the matter was again referred to the respective Home Governments yesterday. It is believed that if unanimity is reached, identical notes will be presented through the Consuls in Canton.

Official Opposition.

Chinese official opposition to the surtaxes is growing owing to the belief that the proceeds will be used sooner or later for another war against the North.

Unofficial foreign circles also are increasingly against the surtaxes, fearing that if they are even tacitly admitted, they will soon be increased to 10 or 20 per cent, thus strangling trade almost as effectively as the boycott did.

Reuter.

CANTONESE FOOD.

TWENTY AND FIFTY CENT
MENUS.

THE SAD END OF POOR PUSSY.

[BY JANET HALL.]

The Chinese restaurant in "Hongkong," Wembley, certainly led to a wider understanding of Chinese food, its preparation and delicacy. Whether it really appealed to the general public—whether John Bull would feel that he had had a "square meal," no matter how many courses, is immaterial—for it is certain that no housewife or cook in England would spare the amount of time necessary to the preparation of these intricate dishes. It is probable that those at Wembley were mixed in Canton; and subsequently came out of a tin, ready for British consumption.

The food, in its natural state, is highly flavoured, fat, and rich without farinaceous qualities, with the sole exception of rice, which is consumed in much the same ratio as potatoes are eaten in Ireland—filling up those corners which cannot be more richly accommodated. Throughout the south of China food is very much more expensive than anywhere north of the Yangtze, and a large proportion of it is imported from further south still.

Insufficient rice is grown locally in spite of every inch of arable land being cultivated. There are a few sweet potatoes, and a kind of chestnut, grown under flooded fields. But that is all. Duck, pork, chicken, and fish of all kinds, are first favourites; and even now the Cantonese does not take kindly to beef or mutton.

I know a man with estates who tried for five years to induce his fellow Cantonese to drink coffee. The local tea deniers got to hear of this; and a little propaganda soon killed the proposed operation. To this day my boy assures me that all this that foreign flesh is heir to come from partaking of this noxious fluid. When he prepares it for me, I am inclined to believe him.

THE TEAHOUSES.

All about Canton city are scattered tea-houses—restaurants where any class of working man can sit at a trestle table or stand in a group, and speedily empty a bowl of appetizing food. The first thing that strikes a foreigner in these houses is the wonderful dexterity of the cooks. A chopping board, two feet across, is piled with the leaves of some herb; similar to mint—the operator, with a flash of his long knife passed each way across the surface at lightning speed, has reduced the whole mass to strips a quarter inch in length, seemingly in a single movement. Quickly follow large red capsicums, nettles, water-cress, lettuce, sweet cabbage mixed with yellow bean shoots grown in the dark, water chestnuts, Chinese mushrooms, a liberal scattering of bright pink shrimps, and a tomato or two. After frying in an enormous pan, a spoonful of this mixture is put on the top of a small basin of glutinous rice, some fish gravy and sweetened sauce added, and for five cents the waiting coolie has a nutritious meal, including in itself all the necessary proteins. At a twenty-cent table the same treatment is being given to other and richer foods. Chickens, poorer than little things weighing but a pound apiece, are killed at the back of this barnlike room—stripped of their feathers, while still warm and quivering, singed and dismembered. The flesh is torn from the bones; and cut to half inch pieces; tossed brown in boiling fat; feet, head, carcase go quickly into the stock pot. The gravy thus obtained is mixed with herbs, and rice, making a delicious mélange. What is left but the offal? Ah! but there you have the best part of the bird; gizzards, livers, hearts are strung on long toothpicks in their dozens, dipped in the boiling fat, and sauce, and up they go to that table where the plutocrats pay fifty cents a bowl. Ducks are roasted whole, and treated the same way as chickens; and then come frogs. The Chinese are very fond of batter; eggs are cheap, even if small, and a frog is usually jointed into four, and served in this casing. Now that England provides France with a hidden import by spending her surplus money in holidaying there, it may no longer be necessary to enlarge on the delicacy of froggy and his friend the caecygol. Both are appreciated in China, together with eels, snakes, pangolins baked in mud, black-beetles baked brittle, sea-slugs, sea-urchins, mussels, small land and sea crabs, crayfish, tortoises.

A NOTE OF SADNESS.

Such is the wretched brew; and I have only one note to add, and that one of sadness. As you are leaving the cook-house-restaurant, a pitiful mewling is heard. Poor pussy, you are said to bring loss, but in this city you may not take your accustomed place beside the wretched cauldron, but in it! Times are hard, and you have become fat with mice and scavenging. You are carried to your execution in a cage. Enough! Alas, poor Fido! the handsome fat puppys so lonesome and bear-like, why were you surnamed Chow, which being interpreted can only mean food? So the cat and the dog, who in this topsy-turvy land never exchange a cross word, meet in a sacrifice to human gluttony!

The Chinese dinner is a very different affair. The invitation comes on a red single slip of paper, the name, date, and time thereon. It is probably 7.30 p.m. which simply means that from that time onwards the host is ready to receive guests. By about nine o'clock there will probably be two tables of Mah cheuk and some guests sitting talking, or endlessly smoking Virginia cigarettes. Little cups of fragrant tea stand about. Guests continue to arrive up to eleven thirty, when the host announces that all have been served.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE FALLING DOLLAR.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONGKONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—As the Sterling Exchange is dropping every day, and I understand it is still going lower, the price of imported goods is bound to go up and it will make hardships for everybody. The rate yesterday was 1s. 9d. to the dollar. As practically all our imports are from countries with a gold standard, that means we are paying for our goods "up to our nose" on account of this drop in the Exchange. People who have to send home for their children's education, etc., are suffering. Why can't the Hongkong Government fix the Hongkong Dollar at 2s. 4d., same as the Straits Dollar. I understand this subject was brought up some years ago, but the Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation was not in favour of Hongkong having a fixed rate of exchange. Of course, it pays the Banks to gamble in Exchange. The Colony has suffered terribly for the last 13 months with the strike and boycott, and now with this sudden and terrible drop in Exchange what is this place coming to. As this subject is of vital importance to this Colony, and others will agree with me, I trust His Excellency the Governor will take this matter up at the once, and will earn the blessing of the community when he carries it through, as it is up to the Hongkong Government to fix the Hongkong Dollar, and not up to any one Bank or Banks to say yes or no. If the Singapore Government fixed the rate of Exchange for the Singapore Dollar at 2s. 3d. years ago, and it is working all right, why can't the Hongkong Government fix the same rate for the Hongkong Dollar?—Yours, etc., X. Y. Z.

Hongkong, October 21st, 1926.

[We publish the above letter in order to show the sublime faith some correspondents have in the power of the Government. It would need more than a notice in the form of a Government Gazette Extraordinary to fix the dollar at 2s. 4d. The question of stabilising the value of the Hongkong dollar has been discussed on many occasions, but the difficulties in the way are numerous. No sound comparison can be drawn between Hongkong and the Straits Settlements in this matter.—Ed. H.K.D.P.]

SUMMARY COURT CASE.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONGKONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—I observe in this morning's edition of your paper in the course of a report of two Summary Court cases between me and Mr. C. H. Kirkaboy you have mentioned that Mr. Kirkaboy alleged he had married my adopted daughter, and failed to point out that in the witness box I stated that the Chinese woman in question was only employed by me to look after my children and had never been adopted by me.

I should therefore be obliged if you would in your next issue mention that this fact was inadvertently omitted from your report of the case.—Yours faithfully, come, and so dinner can begin. Sing-song girls display their arts, and take up their places behind each chair, to light the frequent cigarette, or bend far over the round table to secure some special morsel for a special patron. Swiftly half a dozen boys bring steaming bowls of rich mixtures. Here are all the cook-house treasures with many more added; twelve or fifteen bowls, and the guests, having lined their bowls with rice, scoop and pick from each in any order chosen. There are chopsticks for the solid foods, and small porcelain ladles for the fluids and sauces. Sharks' fins stewed with herbs, and birds' nest soup vaguely reminds one of calves' head; duck skin treated like pork crackling is delicious. Pieces of omelet contain seasoned crab, or portions of sucking pig! More and more dishes. Tea and brandy! and now the politenesses must be attended to. "Samshu is a fiery white liqueur, made from fermented rice and possessed of a curious flavour of roses. Served in silver goblets, no bigger than thimbles, each guest must drink to his friends, one and all. Having risen from the table, the entertainment is over, as far as the host is concerned. There is liberty to go home, or to smoke the pipe of peace.

H. M. H. ESMAIL.

ENTERTAINING THE FOREIGNER.

Such is the dinner given by a Chinaman to his friends, but should he intend doing the same honour to a foreigner, complications begin with the menu and the arrangements of time and procedure. There may be a cloth on the table, knives and forks, and though the food, with a few semi-European additions, is as above, it will come to the table in separate courses and without any rice accompaniment.

At the end of the meal rice will be handed as a mélange, with chicken juices. It is considered impolite to take this, since it implies that you have not been previously satisfied with rich fare. From the merchant and mandarin to the poorest coolie one rule holds good. He would view with disgust, food so scantily prepared as to allow of its original form to be plainly apparent. Our legs of mutton, with glaring knuckle bone, our chickens, pheasants and ducks, served entire, shock the Chinaman as only such grossness can. In his opinion the morsel should be of convenient size for the chopstick to hold, whether in meat or fish, and all preparation necessary should be done behind the scenes by those persons properly employed for the work.

Chinese food is suitable to the climate, and though the penalty of conversion may be obesity, it will not be dyspepsia.

CHINESE SUPERSTITIONS.

BELIEF IN FAIRIES, EVOKING THE
THE DEAD.

A BEWILDERING CASE.

A case, in which numerous beliefs in regard to Chinese superstitions are being cited, came before Mr. Justice Wood in the Summary Court yesterday.

A woman claims to have been married to a man to whom she loaned $1,000. The woman is the plaintiff and the man defendant in the case. The defendant denies having married her, and denies that she loaned him money. The exact contentions of both parties is also bewildering. It seems that the man signed a promissory note for a $1,000 payable to the woman. It, moreover, seems that he did so under the influence of superstition.

It is hardly possible to give a comprehensive story of the case. It seems that the defendant was married, and plaintiff met his wife. This woman had a bad eye, and the plaintiff told her that she would get in touch with the fairies and get medicine for her. This was done, and the eye was cured. Later, the women lived together. The plaintiff called up the spirit of defendant's brother, and it was said that the spirit of the dead man held that his brother's wife should belong to him, and that the defendant should have plaintiff as his wife. Further, the spirits of the defendant's forefathers were raised, and they told the defendant, through the plaintiff, that he should marry her, and that he should pay her $1,000 as a dowry. So the promissory note was signed.

Such, in brief, is the contention of one party. However, the woman vigorously denies this.

Mr. M. K. Lo, for the defence, before the case opened, said that he had as a witness a Chinese reporter, who at plaintiff's instigation had put a marriage notice in the paper. Plaintiff denied having ever spoken to the reporter.

Nonsense!

Mr. Lo (to plaintiff): You told this man that you could call on the fairies, and the spirits?—I have never seen the man.

Did you not tell the reporter that you had to consult the fairies before he could publish the marriage report?—You are talking nonsense.

Then you stood on a stool and shouted (to the fairies) "Come on, Come on!"—No! No!

You deny you are a poi-san-poo (a woman who worships fairies)?—That man would not have married me, if I did.

In answer to her solicitor, Mr. Remedios, she denied evoking the spirits of the dead and also of being a worshipper of fairies. She swore she had married the defendant.

And so it went on with its fairies and spirits, bewildering, interesting, but scarcely understandable. Surely, a stranger case has never come before his Lordship, the Puisne Judge. He will listen to a further stage of the case on Monday morning, the hearing being adjourned until then.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT
BUILDING.THE FIRE BRIGADE'S NEW QUARTERS.

The new Government Building in Des Vaux Road Central, and Connaught Road Central, which is now completed, except for final touches here and there, is being moved into by the various departments which will occupy it. A list of these departments was published a short time ago.

Yesterday the Central Fire Brigade engines and appliances, together with the two ambulance cars were transferred from their "home" a few doors away to their new quarters on the ground floor on the Des Vaux Road side. For a day or two previously this week the alarm bells have been in course of installation and have been fully tested to ensure prompt and accurate working. Now that this has been done the appliances, as stated, have shifted over.

The European officers and the Chinese members of the Brigade have also taken up their quarters in the portion of the building allotted to them.

Other departments are also making preparations to transfer their activities to the new building.

RUNAWAY CHICKEN.

AMUSING STORY TOLD BY COOLIE.

An amusing story was related before Mr. R. E. Liddell at the Central Magistracy yesterday by a Chinese coolie who was charged with unlawful possession of a chicken.

Defendant said that the fowl "broke away from a verandah" and he saw six or seven persons chasing it. He joined in the chase and caught the bird first. Further that it was his intention to make a present of it to his wife.

His Worship: So you were the lucky one, or at the moment you thought you were lucky. But it was not your chicken?

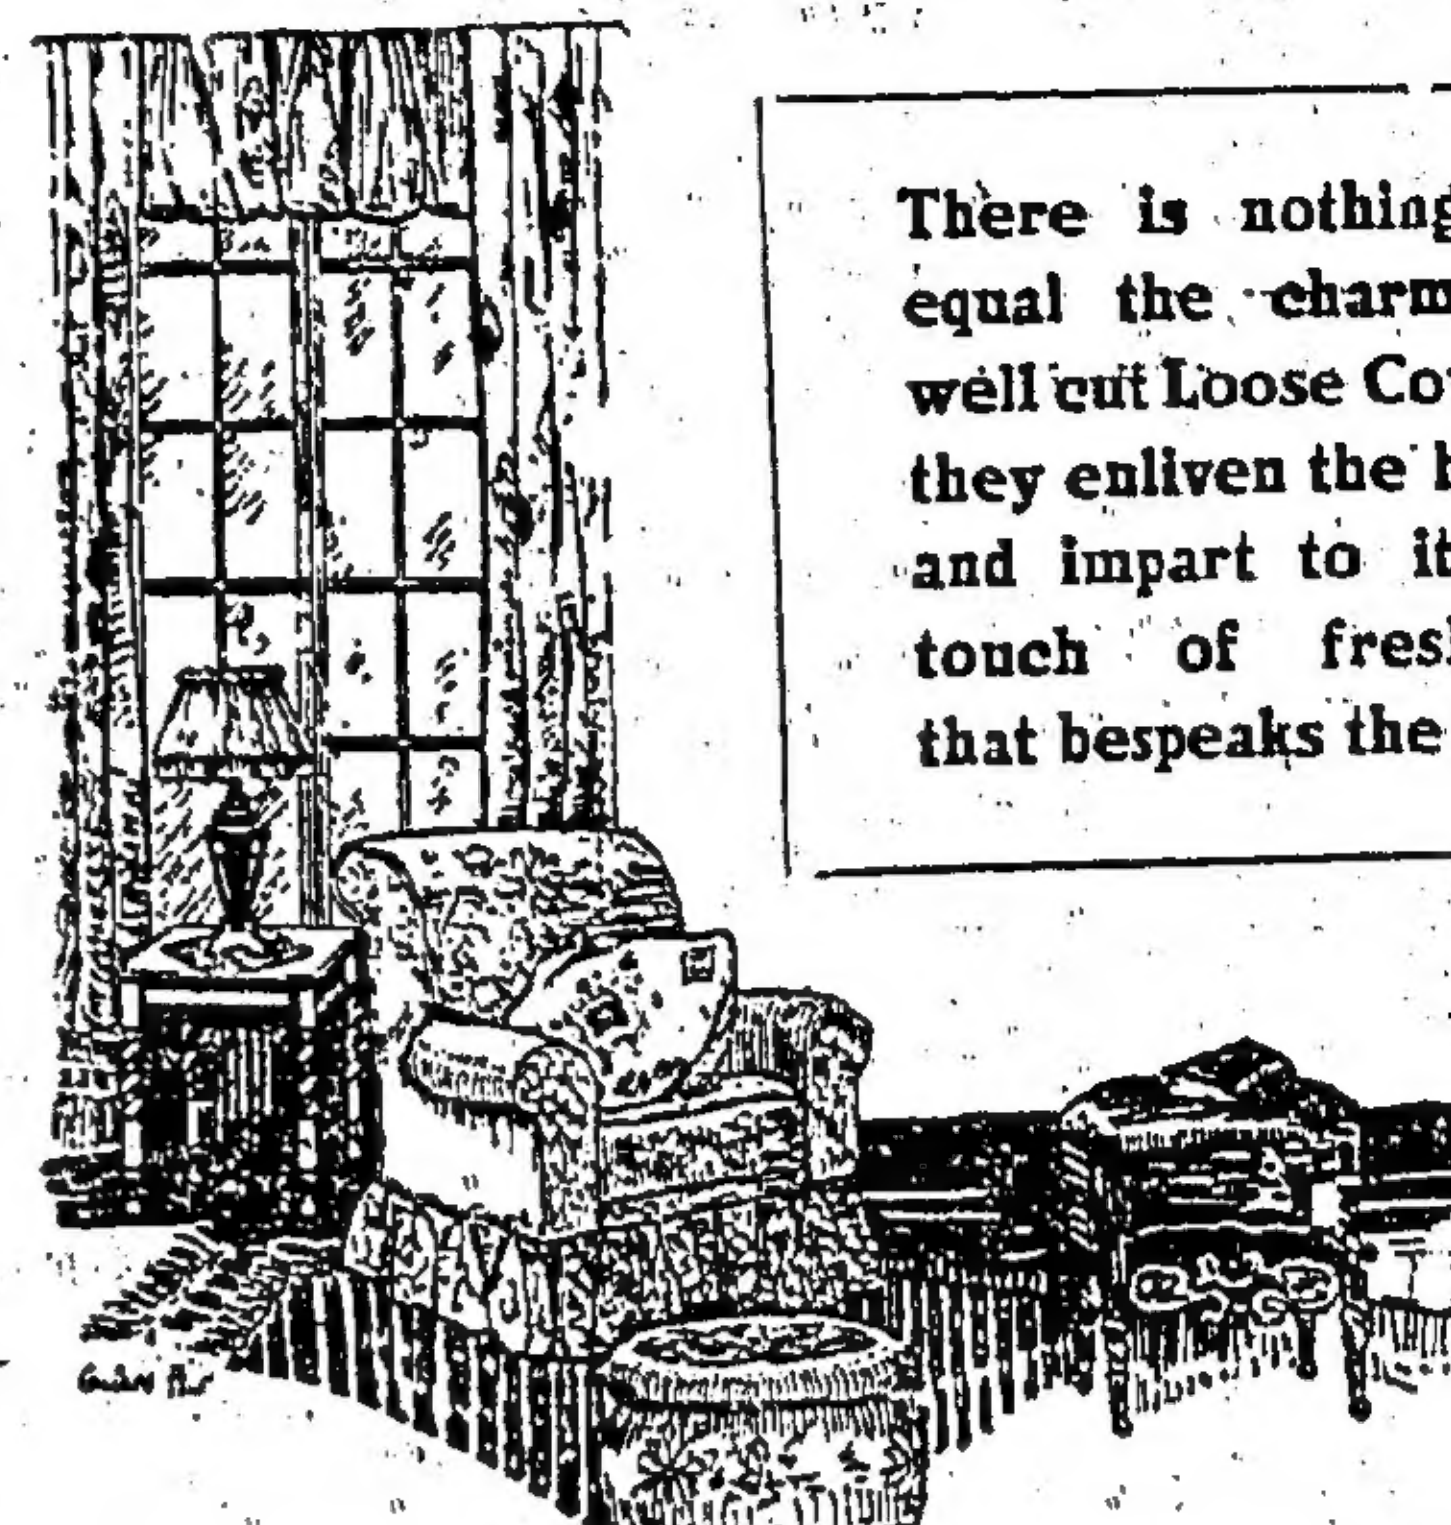

Defendant admitted this was so, but said he was prepared to surrender the chicken if anybody had claimed it.

Divisional Inspector Grant stated that defendant was found by a detective with the chicken under his arm and when questioned gave the same story about the bird having flown down from a verandah. Defendant pointed out the verandah of the house, but none of the inmates claimed the bird.

In imposing a fine of $5, or seven days' imprisonment, His Worship advised defendant to leave chickens alone in future.

TEA PRICES.

REPORT BY FOOD COUNCIL.

LONDON, September 21st.

The first report on tea prices issued by the Food Council, does not at present submit definite suggestions on the general subject of producers' organisation, but if it appears that their effect is to raise the price of food to consumers of the United Kingdom to a permanently higher level, the Council will not hesitate to place comments before the President of the Board of Trade. The Council does not consider special action is demanded to limit the operations of buying brokers when operations are strictly confined to their proper function, but it points out that the combination of the ordinary business of the buying broker and the jobbing department clearly affords ample opportunity for speculation since it enables the broker to take his profits from the appreciation value of tea through sales effected by the jobbing department and through sales of the broking department to avoid risks of depreciation.

THE OLYMPIA MOTOR SHOW.

GROWTH OF BRITISH INDUSTRY.

BIG FORWARD SALES BOOKED.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUEY, October 21st.

London hotels are crowded with visitors from the provinces and overseas for the annual motor show which opens at Olympia to-morrow. The motor show week has of late years become one of the leading festival seasons of the London year, and some scores of thousands of private owners and agents from all parts of Britain will, it is anticipated, visit the show in the course of the next few days.

Already there is a promise that the exhibition will maintain its reputation as a selling show. The demand for small cars will probably prove particularly heavy. One leading firm, Morris Motors, Ltd., last night completed the signing of contracts for the sale of 73,000 cars in 1927. Of these over 20,000 have been ordered by agents at home, and the remainder have been booked for overseas markets, particularly within the Empire. Australia is said to be the biggest buyer. Orders for this make of car represent a sum of approximately £17,000,000.

The Daily Mail states that one large firm of motor car distributors in England and overseas have during the past few days signed contracts for the purchase during 1927 of 222,000 cars involving a sum of £35,000,000. Medium powered cars are also, it appears, in heavy demand for overseas. One well-known firm of manufacturers has booked orders for about 2,000 six-cylinder cars for the Dominions market. Another has contracts for distant markets which represent an increase of from thirty to fifty per cent. on last year's output, and although details are not available from other firms, it is known that their order books are regarded as highly satisfactory.

"BEAM" RADIO.

NEW WIRELESS ERA.

THE SYSTEM EXPLAINED.

RUEY, October 20th.

Short-wave "beam" wireless stations, designed for communication between Britain and the Dominions and India, the first of which, as already reported, opens on Monday for communication with Canada, will operate on a wavelength of only 20 metres. The design enables the energy to be concentrated so efficiently along the path of the beam, that the transmitting stations require much less power than is customarily the case and are, consequently, much cheaper to operate. The rate of transmission has exceeded, in tests, over 20 letters a second, thus enabling an enormous volume of words to be sent in a few hours.

Working Explained.

Transmission from the station will be operated direct from the General Post Office in London. At the moment that an operator there presses his key or feeds the signalling tape into a high-speed telegraph instrument, the signal which he is sending, if intended for Canada, are being recorded in the telegraph office in Montreal, which is connected in similar manner to the Canadian Wireless receiving station. In the same way messages, put on to the transmitter in the telegraph office in Montreal, are instantly recorded at the General Post Office in London after having travelled across the Atlantic and passed through the beam receiving station at Bridgewater.

According to the design peculiar to this system, each station has five lattice steel masts arranged in a straight line and aligned so that a great circle bearing on a distant receiving station is at right angles to the line of masts. The beam is thus projected accurately in the direction of the station with which communication is maintained.

Overcoming Statics.

Senator Marconi to-day expressed the view that with the beam system atmospheric conditions would cease to be a serious hindrance in working with Canada. Preliminary tests with Australia show that communication with that Continent, despite the 11,000 miles distance, "was even easier than with Canada. He anticipated that the increased facilities would stimulate commercial intercourse.

Beam stations are also being erected in Canada for direct communication with Australia and corresponding beam stations are being built at Melbourne.

Statement by Marconi.

LONDON, October 21st.

A new era in wireless communication was foreboded by Senator Marconi in an address in London describing the successful trials of the "Beam" station, which works on a low wave length and directs signals in a straight line instead of broadcast.

The Post Office is satisfied with the trials and the licensed stations of Bodmin and Bridgewater will open for business with Canada on the 26th of this month. Other stations nearing completion will communicate with South Africa, India, Australia, and North and South America.

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

SECRET DISCUSSION ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, October 20th.

The Imperial Conference resumed secretly to discuss foreign affairs. Nothing of Sir Austen Chamberlain's speech will be published, and it was pointed out in well-informed quarters to-day that it would be useless to bring the Premiers from the ends of the earth and not tell them frankly everything affecting the relations of the Empire and foreign Powers. Therefore, the Conference itself decided that the speech must be kept secret. It is known that Sir Austen Chamberlain's speech will be most lengthy, ranging over the whole field of foreign affairs and dealing particularly with the Locarno Treaty. As regards the latter his words will be in the nature of a defence as some of the Dominion delegates have strong views against the policy embodied in those treaties. The speech will probably occupy most of today's sitting, and later there will be a discussion on the making of treaties by the Imperial Government and the Dominions' attitude thereto.

The Day's Business.

RUEY, October 20th.

The second meeting of the Imperial Conference was held at No. 10, Downing Street, to-day. Mr. Stanley Baldwin presided.

He read a reply received from H.M. the King, thanking the Conference for the message of greeting which it sent yesterday. His Majesty added, "I shall follow with interest and sympathy your discussions of those important questions which will come before you and the settlement of which I trust will promote the unity and greatness of the Commonwealth of British Nations."

Sir Austen Chamberlain then made a statement on the general situation regarding foreign affairs. He had not concluded it when the Conference rose at one o'clock. When the Conference resumed its meeting in the afternoon Sir Austen Chamberlain completed his statement.

Lord Lloyd, High Commissioner for Egypt, who attended at the request of the Conference, then gave further information regarding the situation in Egypt.

Yesterday's Session.

RUEY, October 21st.

This morning's session of the Imperial Conference will review economic problems affecting the Empire as a whole. A discussion will arise on the introductory statement to be made by the President of the Board of Trade, Sir Philip Cunliffe Listner. Great importance is attached by all the delegates to deliberations on various economic questions that will be debated by the Conference, and in view of the technical character of some of them, it is possible that they will be referred to committees of the Conference to prepare a recommendation. In any event it is probable that this morning's sessions will merely mark the opening of a discussion which at intervals will continue throughout the next few weeks during which the Conference is to sit. This afternoon a statement will be made to the Conference by the Secretary for the Colonies, Mr. Amery, in which the position in regard to the colonies and mandated territories will be reviewed.

Australia's Loyalty.

During their stay in London, the delegates to the Imperial Conference will visit a large number of engagements. The first of these was an official banquet and reception on Tuesday night and last night they were the guests at dinner of the Empire Press Union. The Australian Premier, Mr. Bruce, who, with other delegates, replied to the toast of "Our Guests," said that the great principle had been definitely established that all self-governing Dominions were free and independent entities whose destinies rested entirely in their own hands within the Empire. Any restraining or curbing of their liberty would, of course, be resisted, but there was nothing in the talk of insuperable difficulties that had to be overcome. If and when it came to a question of the Empire and the British People against any other nation, they in Australia were determined to be one and to be united. They would fight any thing that might lead to any breaking up of the great unity which to-day was one of the stable forces in the World for promoting peace.

COAL DISPUTE.

FRESH DEVELOPMENTS INDICATED.

STATE OF EMERGENCY TO BE CONTINUED.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUEY, October 20th.

H.M. the King to-day held a Privy Council at Sandringham and signed Proclamations declaring a continuance of the State of Emergency, in view of the coal stoppage and summoning Parliament to meet next Monday, to renew the Emergency Regulations.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, who was expected to arrive at Sandringham this morning to attend the Privy Council, was suddenly summoned there yesterday afternoon and dined with the King. He had accepted an engagement to dine with the Dominions' Premiers in London yesterday evening and had to cancel this.

In political circles there is some speculation regarding the alteration of the Home Secretary's plans and rumour was current to-day that a new move in the coal dispute is imminent. In any case, it is anticipated that renewed efforts will be made when Parliament meets on Monday to find some means of bringing the coal stoppage to an end. The cold weather which has set in will undoubtedly add force to any such efforts.

On Friday, the General Council of the Trades Union Congress assembled in London.

Members of the Miners' Executive have been touring the coalfields endeavouring, with unimportant success, here and there to bring out the men who have returned to work. They will be back in London on Friday and will meet the General Council of the Trades Union Congress. They will present to the General Council their proposals for an embargo on foreign coal and for a levy on the Trades Unions. The replying of the General Council is a foregone conclusion. It will undoubtedly be in the negative in view of the statements recently made at the Labour Party Conference by Mr. J. H. Thomas and Mr. Ben Tillett, the leaders of the great Railwaymen's and Transport Workers' Unions. They declared that an embargo was impracticable, and that their Unions, as well as other Unions, could not afford a levy in view of unemployment and the depletion of funds which they themselves were suffering.

Obviously, the General Council of the Trades Union Congress will be concerned only to be ready to assist in any move for peace.

AMERICAN COMMENT ON BANKERS' MANIFESTO.

NEW YORK, October 20th.

The newspapers give prominence to the Bankers' Manifesto. Pro-administration newspapers are inclined to regard it, as far as the American signatories are concerned, as the expression of a desire to assist in the recovery of Europe and in nowise as an appeal for the modification of American tariffs, but Democratic newspapers point out that the manifesto, many signers of which are members of the dominant Republican party, reflects upon the United States' tariff wall.

Further Recommendations.

PARIS, October 20th.

The Committee of the International Chamber of Commerce has unanimously recommended that steps be taken to avoid an economic upheaval. The recommendations follow the lines of the Bankers' manifesto, and include proposals for the removal of restrictions on travel, transport and trade, free trade in raw materials, the abolition of all duties restricting exports, the suppression of customs barriers, and suggests the creation, under the auspices of the League of Nations, of a Permanent Commission on tariffs and trade matters. The recommendations will be submitted to the International Economic Conference of the League of Nations.

"INTERNATIONAL BANKER."

POLITICAL ISSUE IN AMERICA.

WASHINGTON, October 21st.

How the international appeal for Free Trade, causing a stir in political circles, is likely to form a text for the election campaign is related by the newspapers which point out that though the tariff will not arise as a major issue, the Democrats will probably enthusiastically join the Republicans beating the "international banker," leading to interesting implications inasmuch as the sharp cleavage of the parties is tending to disappear since many Republicans in the North and the East are nowadays bankers and industrialists with foreign commitments, whereas Southern Democrats, who formerly were agriculturists favouring a low tariff, now entering industry, have manufactured commodities to protect, but as the tariff issue was not raised before March, it is very unlikely that anything will be done at present beyond a general condemnation of the so-called international banker.

EURASIAN'S TRAGIC END.

FALL FROM THIRD FLOOR VERANDAH.

FOLLOWING VISIT OF POLICE TO CHINESE CLUB.

The shocking tragedy which occurred at West Point on the night of Tuesday, September 13th, when a Eurasian, named Alfred Cunningham, who was employed as a salesman in the Hongkong offices of Messrs. Brunner, Mond and Co., met his death under tragic circumstances, was recalled at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, where Major C. Willson, sitting as Coroner, and a jury, held an inquiry into the circumstances of Cunningham's death.

Witness for Arrest.

From the evidence given, it appeared that the police, who had received information that Cunningham was to be found at Yue On Terrace, West Point, proceeded there to arrest him.

Going to the third floor of the Tin Tin Club they found Cunningham had disappeared.

From further evidence, it appeared that Cunningham had been playing a game at the Club, and received information that the police were coming. He later made for the rear of the floor.

Body Found.

A little later his dead body was found in the lane at the back of the Club, a drop of about fifty feet. It seems that in attempting to evade arrest he endeavoured to drop from the third floor verandah to the next floor verandah. He apparently misjudged the drop, and fell. When picked up his head was badly battered, and he also severe injuries to other parts of his body.

Evidence was given that deceased had not been at the office since the previous Friday.

Suicide Indicated.

Addressing the jury, the Coroner handed them a letter, which he said had been written by the deceased to his employers. This letter, the Coroner said, dealt at great length with certain matters connected with the office, but one part of it indicated that by the time the letter was received the writer would be a dead man.

That, pointed out the Coroner, meant that the jury had two possibilities to consider:

1.—Whether Cunningham actually was trying to escape to evade arrest.

2.—Did he deliberately commit suicide.

The Verdict.

After considering the points raised by the Coroner, the jury returned a verdict "That deceased met his death by a fall from the verandah while trying to evade arrest by the police."

Major Willson: I quite agree with that verdict.

The jury added a rider that no blame was attached to the police.

HAVANA STRUCK BY HURRICANE.

TREMENDOUS DAMAGE TO SHIPPING.

NEW YORK, October 20th.

Havana, the capital of Cuba, has been struck by a hurricane, with a wind velocity of 125 miles per hour.

The streets in the business section were blocked with wreckage, including telegraph and flag poles. One new steel apartment, houses and also the trees in the beautiful Central Park were blown over.

Virtually all the small vessels and launches in the harbour were wrecked. Three small schooners, the Cuban training ship Partia and small naval vessel were sunk. A Norwegian steamer was blown from its moorings to the other side of the harbour and then back again.

It is believed that the crops in the provinces of Havana, Matanzas and Pinar del Rio are seriously damaged. The damage in Havana was minimised owing to a warning of the storm's approach being published in the press so that decks were cleared for action and the population well under cover.

The hurricane has headed north-east from Havana to South Florida, where it is expected to-night.

Gaol Prisoners Released.

Following the warning of an approaching hurricane over Southern Florida, the Chief of Police, at Miami ordered all the police on duty as an emergency precaution. Meanwhile, the prisoners in the gaol who are heads of families were released to enable them to protect their homes if the hurricane strikes the district, the released men giving a parole to return to gaol after the danger has passed.

ROBBERY AND MURDER.

SEQUEL TO SAI KUNG LAUNCH PIRACY.

STORY OF DARING PIRATICAL ATTACK.

INDIAN GUARD SHOT.

Leaving Sai Kung for Hongkong on September 13th, with passengers and cargo, the Sung Kung, the launch which maintained a service between the two places, was pirated by a number of men who had concealed themselves among the passengers, and who suddenly sprang a surprise on the Indian guards, crew and passengers when the launch had just left Loong Shun Wan, after picking up cargo. The Indian guards were overpowered and one was shot during the struggle for a rifle. He subsequently died.

The sequel took place at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon, when, before Mr. J. H. E. Nicholl, five men, alleged to be the pirates, were charged in connection with the affair. The defendants were charged with murder and robbery on the high seas. One of the prisoners was further charged with being in unlawful possession of a revolver and three rounds of ammunition and another with having in his possession two rounds of ammunition.

The Story.

Mr. Whyte (Assistant Crown Solicitor) opened the case for the prosecution and explained that as the story of the alleged piracy could best be followed by reference to charts, he would submit an Admiralty Chart to his Worship. He then proceeded to relate that the launch Sung Kung, which runs between Sai Kung and Hongkong, was fitted with grills and carried three armed guards under the Piracy Prevention Ordinance. On September 13th at 2.30 p.m. the left Sai Kung for Hongkong. Mr. Whyte Smith was doubtful whether the regulations of the Piracy Prevention Ordinance were observed as, from evidence, the grills were unlocked and on the bridge, besides the Captain, there were a man and woman. The rifles were evidently stocked in the corner of the grills.

The Attack.

A few minutes after leaving Shek Wan five men rushed to the bridge and attacked the Indian guard on duty, Sagara Singh. The guard is said to have seized one of the rifles and to have struck one of the assailants on the head with it. One of the assailants who has been identified as the third defendant got hold of the guard's rifle and the two were seen holding on to it. In the struggle that followed the guard fell to the ground, and while he attempted to get up, the third defendant drew his revolver and fired several shots. It was possible, Mr. Whyte Smith continued, that the other defendants fired their revolvers also. One of the shots entered the guard's abdomen and, as a result of that wound, he died in hospital three days later.

Assault and Robbery.

One of the owners of the launch, who happened to be on board, had a revolver pointed at him by the first defendant and was ordered to be quiet. He saw the men carrying the arms that were stolen from the guard. The men also took his attack case. The Empress was below at the time, and was only aware of the piracy when one of the men came up from behind with a revolver and asked for the keys of the safe, which he handed to him. $520 was stolen from the safe, of which $300 were in Hongkong ten-cent pieces and $220 in notes.

Escape of the Pirates.

After the robbery, the robbers proceeded to direct the course of the launch. The third defendant, who appeared to be the ring leader, had his revolver pointed at the coxswain, whom he ordered to proceed to open sea. The launch passed Loong Shun Wan, near Shek Wan, when they sighted a Police Launch which turned out afterwards to be No. 2 Police Launch. The third defendant then ordered the coxswain to steam to the shore where there was a fishing boat. The five men got to the fishing boat and went ashore. The last that was seen of them was when they were going over the mountain carrying the attack case.

Search and Arrest.

On the 13th September, a day after the piracy a search was made for the suspected persons and acting upon information, the police went to Tat Moor Village in Seagrass Island. The first defendant was found in a lavatory in the village with $40 in Hongkong ten-cent pieces. The second defendant was arrested about the same time in a wash house.

On the following day, September 14th, two Tripo Police went to make a further search on Seagrass Island and approached a manure hut, calling upon anyone in there to come out; as no one came out, a shot was fired into the hut and then the third defendant came forward. In his waistcoat $25.30 were found in ten and five-cent pieces and a few twenty-cent pieces. The attack case was found in the hut. The fourth defendant was arrested in the street with $2.33 in Hongkong money mostly ten-cent pieces.

Dr. Newton, who made the post mortem examination of the deceased guard, then gave evidence: A photographer was also called. The case was adjourned.

Maintainous Waves.

Hitherto four bodies have been found in the debris of the collapsed houses but more deaths are expected in a section of the city which was flooded to a depth of 24 feet by maintainous waves.

The WOMAN'S PAGE

FASHION.

I paid what proved to be a most interesting visit this week to a store which has opened in the premises formerly occupied by Lane Crawford. It is a most unassuming store from the outside but Miss Chiffon—that is the name of the proprietress—has a stock surprising in its variety and the frocks are of exquisite and original taste and above all quite and original. Two jumper-suits particularly caught my fancy. They were attractive enough on account of their colour-designs alone. One of them had a skirt of a material which is a good imitation of a light suede leather and the top part was of the loveliest crocheted-work. Crochet seems to be very fashionable for all the pretty jumper-blouses if not altogether of crocheted-work, have at least some crocheted stitches somewhere—either instead of the hem-line along the sides or to fasten in the sleeves. Neck and pockets have frequently crocheted work too. There are some light dresses for street-wear, and pretty skirts also that make a wonderful combination with sport blouses.

Jewellery and Hat-pins.

The shops are re-introducing hatpins as an autumn novelty for the first time since fashion turned her back on them. It is with an effort that one recalls the time when a woman's hat bristled with pins, and headaches resulted from having a pin too firmly fixed in the hair. Yet women once gave as much attention to a hat-pin with a really handsome head as they pay now-a-days to the selection of a bag. The "bob" and the shingle brought about the downfall of the hat-pin and women discovered the meaning of comfort when they ceased to stick one pin through the back of their hair and one through either side of the hat in order to keep the hat in a sort of steel

Printed chiffons make delightful scarves for wearing with indoor jumper suits and coat frocks. They will probably be extremely popular with those "no longer quite young" as the French put it, for they help to soften those unkind lines made by the passing years round chin and neck without adding any discomfort or extra weight.

Dreammakers are reviving the honey-comb part of the smock on capes and blouses and are probably encouraged in so doing by the supple quality of all present day materials whether silken or woollen. Side panels of smocking about eight or nine inches deep are put on striped or check skirts.

In almost all stores in town new models were expected to come this week and I hope to be able to refer to some of them in my next article. M.M.V.

A pretty undergarment made of silk either in black or in any other colour. Below the band that marks the waistline the slip has a greater fullness.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Glass-Cleaning.

The appearance of any glass article depends more than anything else on the manner in which it is cleaned. Tumblers and wine-glasses should be washed in warm water to which a little soap has been added. They should then be rinsed in cold water and placed upside down on a tray to dry. Afterwards they should be dried with a linen glass cloth and, if great brilliancy is required, polished with a chamois leather. It is a good plan to add a little vinegar to the rinsing water at occasional intervals as this brightens the glass and prevents it from becoming stained. When tumblers have been used for milk they should be filled with cold water as soon as possible to prevent the grease sinking into the glass.

Water bottles and decanters become stained very readily. They are best cleaned by putting into them a mixture of tea-leaves, vinegar, salt and water. Leave them for about two hours and then shake vigorously, rinse several times in cold water, dry the outside with a linen glass-cloth, polish with a chamois leather and place neck downwards in a jug to drain. Cut-glass when very dirty may be made to regain its bright appearance by adding a few drops of ammonia to the water. A soft brush will also be found very useful to remove dust from the crevices.

Smears are best removed from mirrors by rubbing with a piece of flannel which has been dipped into a mixture of fine whitening and methylated spirits. When dry, rub off with a duster and polish with a chamois leather. Care should be taken that the whitening does not penetrate the glass and the frame. It is important to choose a dull dry day to clean windows. If the sun is shining no amount of rubbing will prevent the windows from becoming streaky when dry. A few drops of ammonia should be added to the warm water which should be applied with a linen cloth. Dry with a clean duster and polish with a pad of soft newspaper or a chamois leather.

A new way of wearing a scarf. The scarf is wound round the neck and passed through the slots in the lapels and tied in a bow at their point.

triangle. The vogue for large hats last summer did not bring any nearer the revival of the hat-pin, which, as long as women follow the fashion of short hair and close-fitting hats can have no purpose beyond that of adornment.

Paris, however, has now decided to re-introduce the hat-pin solely as an ornament. Some time ago French women were to be seen with crystal hat-pins effectively fixed in front of bright coloured felt-hats. The fashion has been rapidly taken up on the other side of the Channel and the crystal ornament will be largely worn this season. There are some very smart designs and the latest are elongated or pear-shaped crystal heads gilded at the edges. There is also a cube shape in an imitation of crystal and gold. A faceted crystal effect makes yet another style and flat round heads set in silver and engraved are very smart.

Much imitation jewellery is worn on dresses. Miss Chiffon has many of these dress adornments and it is quite interesting to see what unusual designs the whims of fashion designers have produced.

The Stole and the Tie. In furs the stole and the tie are coming back to their own. The newest stoles are composed of four strands of black skunk. This skunk is of very soft texture and very superior to the skunk of the old days when it was one of the harshest pets.

But among all kinds of fur, fox in all its shadings of black and grey, or brown, grey and yellow has the advantage that it will stand real hard wear. It also looks well with almost any kind of clothes, even with tweeds and similar fabrics. Another most beautiful fur is the sable, which also goes almost with any thing.

Scarves and Smocks.

The number and shape of scarves seems inexhaustible. The latest way of wearing the long narrow scarf is in a semi-nautilus fashion. It is twisted once round the neck, and the ends are passed through the slots in the lapels and tied in an artistically careless bow at their point. A charming and simple trimming is in this way produced for simple linen, silk or stockinet frocks. On a plain frock one could wear a spotted check or figure crepe de chine or foulard scarf, on a patterned frock a plain one in a contrasting colour would look best.

BEAUTY PARLOUR.

Most women love to discuss their ailments, and yet there is nothing easier than to cure oneself and to forget about them. The following is a little sound advice: First of all cultivate the "exercise habit." Make a certain amount of some kind of physical exercise as regular a part of your daily routine as eating.

Watch your breathing and breathe deeply always.

Fill your lungs with fresh air as soon as you can after waking and again before you go to bed.

Watch your eating. Don't rush it on any account. Rather have a light meal and wait until you have time to eat properly than bolt a heavy meal in a few minutes.

Drink plenty of water and be very discriminating in what you eat.

Learn to sit so that your internal organs are not cramped and your spine is rested.

Don't wear narrow and high-heeled shoes if you have to stand and walk a lot.

Learn to control your thoughts so that you don't worry and get depressed over little things that don't matter. Thoughts have a very considerable effect on health. It is very important to remember that. Get the wish to be really, vitally alive and glowing and happy right into your mind, so that in every thing you do and in every thought you are working toward that goal. Look at yourself in your mirror. Is your complexion blotchy and your skin leaden? Is your hair lifeless and dull? Are your eyes tired? Then shake yourself out of morbid apathy. In most cases it is up to ourselves to bring about a thorough change in this state of affairs. We should never relate our most harrowing experiences in order to gain sympathy; it does more harm than good to ourselves.

Frock with cape to match both showing the fashionable smock. The outside of the cape is plain but the inside is of a more elaborate pattern. The skirt is pleated and the waistline is long.

COOKING RECIPES.

Apple Pastry.

Chop or grate half a dozen tart-cooking apples, core them, and mix with them brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll out some good pastry into oblong and spread the apple over it. Put a few dots of butter over it and roll up like a roll-poly. Cut the roll in slices and lay these on a baking tin. Bake in a good oven about twenty minutes basting occasionally with the syrup which will run from the apples. Dredge well with sugar before serving.

Mushrooms With Scrambled Eggs.

Ingredients: Three eggs, 1 lb. butter, 2 tablespoonsful of milk, 1 lb. mushrooms, salt-butter and buttered toast.

Stalk, peel and fry the mushrooms until tender and keep them hot.

Have ready rounds of well buttered toast. Beat the eggs lightly, add the milk and season well with salt and pepper. Melt the butter in a small saucepan, pour in the egg mixture and stir over a gentle heat until there is a soft creamy mass. Take from fire immediately it starts getting creamy as it soon becomes leathery if overcooked. Arrange the mushrooms on the toast pile, some egg over them, and serve quickly.

PARIS FASHION NOTES.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT, ISABEL RAMSAY.]

Flowers are coming back into fashion again. In fact, if you want to feel that you are perfectly turned out, you will add a flower to your costume at every time of the day. To the coat or tailor made, add a camellia or gardenia in felt or kid; to the afternoon ensemble, add a carnation or early Victorian gown, add something more decorative, a peony, a rose or an orchid made of organdie or tulle. Only then will you be quite beyond reproach.

Something new in the way of handkerchiefs are the brilliant coloured affairs that are now being offered. They are made of crepe de chine, are stitched round the edges in black and into one corner, by way of ornament, is embroidered a Mah Jong character. Other amusing novelties have each day of the week embroidered in one corner in a silk to match the coloured border. There is a decided vogue for coloured handkerchiefs just now and the daintiest models in fine lawn or crepe de chine are to be seen in delicate powder blue, bois de rose, amethyst and lettuce green shades, mixed with white or beige. The batik handkerchief has died a sudden and complete death. In fact, batik in all its multiple forms seems to have been relegated to the things of the past. Occasionally one sees scarves decorated with batik work, but its day of widespread popularity is certainly over.

Bags.

An amusing model I saw at one of those smart little bag shops that crowd into the Faubourg Saint Honoré, was made of alligator skin and stitched round with brown silk so as to give the effect of hoops round a miniature barrel. Alligator skin is occupying the attention of most of the smart bag-makers these days. One attractive model of the flat envelope type was made of pig skin with the flap of alligator skin finished with a huge gilt monogram. Sonia Delaunay's cubist bags that are a riot of geometrical dimensions embroidered in brilliant silks or in gold or silver thread are having a big vogue. Another popular model, for the evening, is an envelope shape embroidered diagonally across one side with tiny seed pearls, and across the other with diamonds, the whole being bordered with an edging of silver kid. This is as practical as it is effective as it can be carried with any kind of lame or beaded frock and harmonise perfectly. Silk embroidered bags that are imitations of fine old tapestries are among the works of art in the bag world.

Perhaps the greatest sensation ever caused in the fashion world is the return to favour of ostrich feathers. At most social gatherings they are to be noticed in some form or another on every second woman. And seeing them so soft and charming adorning the necks of pretty women, one wonders why ostrich feathers have ever been abandoned for even a few seasons. They are so feminine and alive to the movements of their wearers. The great vogue is certainly the "Mon Pierrot" colarette which Caroline Reboux launched. This is made in two, sometimes three tones of one colour, shading from light to a deeper tone, or showing a contrasting colour worked in to make a definite blending by separating the colours in two or three sections. Transformed into this beautiful colarette the "Mon Pierrot" ruffie can truly be said to be more becoming than fox and other types of fur necklets, which look dull and dead in comparison. Sometimes ribbon streamers are used to tie the ruffie round the neck. Another idea is to join the ends with a strip of elastic so that the ruffie can be slipped down and held in place round the shoulders. Numbers of the smartest women have already adopted the "Mon Pierrot" ruffie so that it is no uncommon sight to see dozens in every variety of design and colouring at all the chic places in the Bois and the Champs Elysees where the smart people of Paris congregate. The long feather boa is also rapidly gaining in popularity, particularly when it is made up in white and black tones. It is seen worn as an accompaniment to the black and white frocks and ensembles that are having a vogue all their own just now.

ELIZABETH ARDEN

NEW YORK

PARIS

LONDON.

ELIZABETH ARDEN, whose smart Salons are frequented by the most beautiful women of the fashionable world, sends these wise suggestions to all women:

Don't mistake the cultivation of loveliness for make-up. They are miles apart! It is wisdom, of course, to make subtle use of fine violet accessories to enhance and accent the features and the natural colouring. But it is tragic to try to hide blemishes with cosmetics, for each year you will grow more dependent on these artificial means of concealing the ravages of your unwisdom.

Learn to care for your skin scientifically, to keep it young and naturally lovely. Quickened the circulation that carries off poisons and brings fresh colour to the cheeks. Nourish the tissues to keep them firm and round. Drive away all signs of age by holding the keen contour and the radiant sparkle of youth. You can!

The Venetian Preparations, which I made first for the treatments given in my Salons, are now on special display at

HONGKONG SHIPPING.

ANOTHER DROP IN ARRIVALS.
BIG DECREASE IN FREIGHT.

With only six arrivals for the twenty-four hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday, ten fewer than for the previous period, tonnage and freight showed a big decrease. The revival in shipping and freights indicated two days ago appears to have vanished again, and once more figures have dropped back. Hongkong cargo went down by over 4,000 tons; while freights for ports beyond decreased by 13,000 tons.

The Figures.
At 9 a.m. yesterday there were 53 vessels in the harbour, of which 27 were British. During the previous twenty-four hours six vessels arrived, viz., two British, two Japanese and two Chinese. The departures during the same period numbered seventeen, viz., one Norwegian, nine British, three Japanese, one Dutch, two Chinese and one French. The clearances came to four, viz., two Japanese, one Dutch and one British.

COMING AND GOING.

The following sea-going arrivals at Hongkong were reported yesterday morning:

Takikura (3745) British from Calcutta and Singapore; M. M. Co.
Haihong (1570) British from Foochow and Amoy; Douglas S. Co.
Aohoku Maru (1804) Japanese from Takao and Keelung; O.S.K.
Mito Maru (4358) Japanese from Hamburg and Singapore; N.Y.K.
Phanang (1022) Chinese, from Tourane; Chau Yui Teng.

Clearances.

For Swatow: Katsu Maru.
For Takao: Benrinne.
For Batavia: Bandoeng Maru.
For Mantok: Tjikenbang.

Departures.

For Saigon: Produce.
For Singapore: Glengarry, Panama Maru, Atreus, Patroclus.
For Manila: Empress of Canada, Iki Maru.
For Tsingtao: Kojun Maru.
For Swatow: Van Cloon.
For Canton: Shihlung.
For Kwangchow: Han and Tai No. 1.
For Haihow: Changchow, Ming Sang.
For Shanghai: Ningchow.

Ships in Port.

At 9 a.m. yesterday the following numbers of vessels were in port:—

British	27
Panama	1
German	3
No flag	1
Japanese	4
Dutch	12
Portuguese	3
Norwegian	3
Total	58

TONNAGE AND CARGO.

The following comparative statement shows the tonnage and cargo entered:—

Tonnage.
For the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday.
British vessels	5,012 tons.
Other vessels	7,162 "
Total	12,172 "
For the previous 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. on Wednesday.
British vessels	35,949 tons.
Other vessels	17,146 "
Total	53,095 "
Cargo.
For the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday.
For Hongkong	3,684 tons.
For ports beyond	8,924 "
Total	12,612 "
For the previous 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. on Wednesday.
For Hongkong	8,331 tons.
For ports beyond	22,182 "
Total	30,513 "

Best Returns.

Returns were generally very poor. Two British vessels brought 577 tons for Hongkong, all general cargo, while one of the vessels of other nationality, one brought 2,000 tons of general cargo, and the other two 110 tons of general cargo and 11 tons of fruit and general cargo, respectively. With regard to freights for ports beyond, one British vessel carried 3,043 tons of general cargo and one ship under another flag 5,281 tons of general cargo.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The total number of deck passengers entered for the twenty-four hours, ended at 9 a.m. yesterday, was 1,530, of which the s.s. Takikura (British) from the Straits carried 1,400.

The master of a fishing junk was fined $15 at the Marine Court yesterday morning, for allowing his craft to be under way without regulation lights exhibited.

For carrying forty-two passengers in excess of the number allowed by his licence, the master of the steam launch Chi Wo was fined $30 at the Marine Court yesterday.

The Water Police are taking steps to prevent the unnecessary sounding of sirens by steam launches on the Harbour. At the Marine Court yesterday, three launch masters were charged with sounding whistles for other than purposes of navigation, and fines of $5 in each case were imposed.

PARENTS BATTLE FOR A CHILD.

MAGISTRATES DEFIED BY A WOMAN.

HUSBAND IN GAOL.

"If you send us to prison for ever we shall never let you know where our child is."

Mrs. Alburt, of Pritchett-street, Birmingham, whose husband is in prison for refusing to divulge the whereabouts of his daughter, whom he failed to return to a Liverpool mental home, made the above declaration to the Birmingham magistrates.

The conflict between the authorities and Mr. and Mrs. Alburt has now lasted six months, says the Daily Mail to hand. The couple have been fined a number of times, and a month ago the husband was sent to prison.

Mrs. Alburt was again brought before the magistrates, and asked if she would say where her daughter is.

"I shall never tell you," she replied. After a long discussion the magistrates decided to dismiss the summons against the woman, and to take further proceedings against the couple when the man comes out of prison.

"Then," said the chairman, "you will both be liable to three months' imprisonment. Do you understand?"

The woman replied that she understood perfectly, and, having reaffirmed her resolve never to reveal where her child is, added: "She wants us and we want her, and you shall never part us."

THE DESTROYER FLOTILLA.

Yesterday, at 5 p.m., the following destroyers from the recently arrived Flotilla left Hongkong:—

H.M.S. Wild Swan and H.M.S. Wivern, for Hankow.
H.M.S. Volsey and H.M.S. Wishart, for Nanking.
H.M.S. Whittington and H.M.S. Verity, for Swatow.
The others destroyers (H.M.S. Keppel, H.M.S. Wootton and H.M.S. Veteran) will remain in Hongkong pending further instructions.

N.Y.K. NEW YORK SERVICE.

ADDITION OF TWO MOTOR SHIPS.

The N.Y.K. Far East-New York Line was inaugurated ten years ago, and in view of its growing importance to shippers and merchants, the Company has decided to add two motor ships. Atago Maru and Asuka Maru, each of 10,000 tons D.W., in addition to the steamers already engaged on this route, which latter, being now equipped with oil burners, can maintain higher speed than before. Thus the trip by N.Y.K. boats from Hongkong to New York via Panama Canal is shortened and will be covered within fifty-five days.

VESSELS IN DOCK.

The following vessels are in dock:—
At Kowloon: Sui Sang, Ampalnia, Confucius, Sui Tai, On Lee, Ho Sang, and Ho Sang.
At Taikoo: Sobrieken, Tyndareus, Anania, Kweiyang, and Sinkiang.
At Cosmopolitan: Tai Tak.
